Williamstown Arts Trip - June 23-25, 2000

Friday, June 23rd to Sunday, June 25th

Bus leaves the Club at 7:00 PM Friday & returns approx. 7:00 PM Sunday.

Complete Theater Festival Price is $290 per person inclusive.

Complete Film Festival Price is $295 per person inclusive.

Transportation and lodging is $225 per person inclusive.

See Reservation form on page 6 for pricing details.

For the third summer in a row, "The Village Beautiful" is beckoning a group of Williams Club travelers for an exclusive arts-filled weekend getaway. Two extraordinary festivals - the Williamstown Film Festival, now in its second year, and the Williamstown Theater Festival, well respected for the surfeit of talent that it brings to the Berkshires - will be occurring simultaneously on this last weekend in June and members will have the choice of attending their choice of events in either or both programs. The entire group will depart from New York City and enjoy gourmet boxed dinners on the trip, arriving at the Northside Motel late Friday night. Saturday will be filled with festival related events, and after a free morning on Sunday, the group will leave at 3:00 PM to arrive back at the Williams Club at approximately 7:00 PM.

Unlike previous years, members who attend the trip this year have three options:

- (1) Book either the Film Festival or Theater Festival packages
- (2) Create your own itinerary by choosing events from both the Theater and Film packages!
- (3) Do not book either festival package, but come up for the weekend and find your own entertainment.

Theater Festival On Saturday, June 24th, the Williamstown Theater Festival will offer two performances as part of its opening weekend celebration. At the 4:00 PM matinee Downstage show, members will see Orson's Shadow by Austin Pendleton. Inspired by a real event in theater history, Austin Pendleton imagines the meeting of two living legends: Orson Welles and Laurence Olivier who are brought together by esteemed theater critic Kenneth Tynan to collaborate on the absurdist play Rhinoceros. Also with Joan Plowright and Vivien Leigh, Orson's Shadow is a funny and probing behind-the-scenes look at making art and living with celebrity. At 8:30 PM, on the Adams Memorial Theater Mainstage, there will be a presentation of three one-act plays by renowned playwright Noel Coward. Coward's witty one-acts are a theatrical box of bon-bons. An ensemble of WTF favorites are cast in shows that both mock and celebrate society and show business. A memorable theatrical event. The Williams Club group will have priority seating for both performances.

Film Festival This year's Williamstown Film Festival follows up on its successful inaugural in 1999 and holds to a similar schedule. Your day will start with an independent film screening at 10:00 AM and will be followed by a lunch seminar and discussion at 12:30 PM (last year the lunch discussion was led by director John Frankenheimer). There will be another major film screening at 2:30 PM. To complete your experience, the world-renowned Clark Art Institute will host a champagne and dessert reception at 8:00 PM, highlighted by a program touching upon the themes of the Film Festival.

Museums. In addition to both festivals, members may also take advantage of Williamstown's two excellent museums: The Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute and the Williams College Museum of Art (both are within walking distance of the motel). At WCMA this weekend you'll find, "Carrie May Weems: The Hampton Project," an exhibition featuring the work of two photographers, Frances B. Johnston and Carrie Mae Weems, joined by their discipline and shared focus on the history and legacy of Hampton University, founded in 1868 as an institution devoted to the education of African Americans and Native Americans. At the Clark you'll see, "Noble Dreams, Wicked Pleasures: Orientalism in America, 1870-1930," some ninety objects surveying the character and evolution of American representations of the "Orient," a term referring to the region that included Turkey, the Holy Land, Egypt, and North Africa in the popular imagination of turn of the century America. In North Adams, only a 10 minute cab or bus ride down Route 2, you'll find the new Massachusetts Museum of Contemporary Art (MASS MoCA). Explore the many installations in this 13-acre factory campus including Robert Rauschenberg's "The 1/4 Mile or 2 Furlong Piece," a vast project that constitutes a self-contained retrospective spanning the last 15 years. MASS MoCA also has sculptural works on view by American artists Carl Andre, Dan Flavin, and John Chamberlain.

Please Note: All prices are based on double occupancy. Single reservations may be available. Reservations are non-cancelable. Please reserve early as accommodations are limited. The detailed schedule for both festivals will be completed by the release of the next Williams Club Newsletter, but please reserve now if you are interested as bus and hotel space is extremely limited.

LECTURES

Poetry in the Park: An All-Star Open-Air Reading

Sunday, May 7th at 4:00 PM

Price is gratis.

Bryant Park (42nd Street and Sixth Avenue)

Some of The New Yorker's most illustrious poets gather for a public reading in conjunction with the magazine's 75th Anniversary Festival weekend. Williams' Preston S. Parish '41 Third Century Senior Lecturer in English, Louise Glück, will be among the poets reading her acclaimed works. Professor Glück is the recipient of numerous awards and prestigious fellowships from a variety of organizations recognizing her poetry, and her 1993 collection, Wild Iris, earned her the Pulitzer Prize. In addition, she was named an honorary doctor of letter by Williams in 1993, was elected to the American Academy of Arts and Letters in 1997 and has served as the state poet of Vermont. The event will be introduced by New Yorker poetry editor Alice Quinn and celebrates poetry in the magazine from W.H. Auden's to that of contemporary poets. In case of rain, the reading will be held in the Town Hall at 123 West 43rd Street. Seats are available on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Harry Beckwith, Author of The Invisible Touch and Selling the Invisible

Monday, May 15th

Breakfast at 7:45 AM, Lecture at 8:15 AM

Price is $25 per person plus tax and gratuity.

The Columbia Club (15 West 43rd Street)

Harry Beckwith is a pioneer in understanding the ever-increasing service economy. His presentation will focus on how the four key concepts of modern marketing - price, brand, packaging, and relationships - are applied to real-world business and actual circumstances. His own business, Beckwith Partners, counts Microsoft, Chase Manhattan Bank, Smith Barney, Merck, and the U.S. Golf Association among its many clients. His most recent book, The Invisible Touch, released in March 2000, is already climbing the business best-seller charts. Every attendee will receive a hardcover copy of the book and Mr. Beckwith will be available to sign copies after the breakfast.

Due to the intimate nature of this event, spaces are available on a first-come first-served basis. Please reserve early to avoid disappointment. Reservations must be received by 12:00 pm on Thursday, May

DIRECT FROM CAMPUS

Professor Steve Zottoli, "Spinal Cord Injury and Paralysis: Can Science Provide a Cure?"

Thursday, May 25th

Reception at 6:00 PM, Lecture at 6:30 PM

Price is gratis for members, $15 for guests.

There are over 250,000 individuals in the United States that have spinal cord injury and approximately 11,000 new injuries occur each year. Primary and secondary damage to nerve cells in the spinal cord can result in paralysis. Although the central nervous system in mammals was once thought to be incapable of enough regrowth to allow functional recovery, many animal studies have provided evidence that under the right conditions, regeneration and return of some function can occur. These results provide a basis for optimism that therapies to encourage growth and repair damage are possible in humans. Professor Zottoli will discuss recent results, including some generated by his own research program, which highlight the progress in understanding the approaches needed for spinal cord repair and the return of function. He will also share insights into spinal cord injury gained from his conversation with Christopher Reeve that took place after the Williams College Commencement last year.

Steve Zottoli came to Williams as an Assistant Professor in 1980 after receiving his B.A. from Bowdoin College in 1969, earning his Ph.D. from the University of Massachusetts in 1976 and completing postdoctoral research at SUNY Buffalo from 1976 to 1980. He is currently the Howard B. Schow '50 and Nan W. Schow Professor of Biology teaching Animal Physiology along with a senior seminar entitled, "Plasticity of the Nervous System." Professor Zottoli is a neurobiologist by trade and is interested in the neuronal basis of behavior and the response of the central nervous system to injury. In addition, he conducts a summer research program with Williams students at the Marine Biological Laboratory in Woods Hole, Massachusetts. He also serves as Vice President of the Grass Foundation, an organization whose purpose is to advance knowledge principally in neuroscience, and has directed the Howard Hughes Medical Institute grants to Williams College since 1991. Professor Zottoli is married with four children.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

A Private Tour of the Whitney Biennial

Monday, May 22nd

Tour starts at 6:30 PM

Price is $15, Limited to 20.

The Whitney Museum of American Art's signature exhibition presents the most significant recent developments in American art. The 2000 Biennial is the 70th in the series of Annuals and Biennials inaugurated by Museum founder Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney in 1932. The most international Biennial to date - with 21 of the 97 featured artists having been born outside of the United States - the Whitney 2000 Biennial was organized by a team of six curators from around the country. Painting, sculpture, installation, film, video, photography, cinema and Internet art are all represented and over 20 artists are creating installations specifically for the Biennial. The inclusion of Internet art marks the first time that a new medium has been introduced to the exhibition since 1975, when video art made its Biennial debut. Veronica Roberts '98 will once again be the guide for this evening of educational enjoyment. Please reserve early as the previous tour in January regarding the American Century sold out twice over. We will meet at the somewhat surreptitious Whitney staff entrance at 33 East 74th street off Madison (walking towards Park Ave.).

Finally, you must bring a friend of the opposite sex to make sure the numbers are even.
